

GOVERNMENT CLARIFIES TRAINING REGULATIONS

Words to the Wise

More disastrous columns have appeared frozen in relentless black type which begin by taking the reader (or readers if the columnist has a following beyond the confines of his charitable family) into his confidence and confessing that he hasn't the semblance of an idea for the column which he is about to write. If he repeats this dismal tale often enough he has a column finished just before his mind goes completely blank and he feels himself crossing the narrow margin into the regions of dementia. There have been a few souls who could do this successfully by employing wittily self-disparagement until they had their allotted inches covered and could write a relieved "30" at the end of their copy.

For the most part, however, there is nothing more pitiful than to sit at a desk staring at a beast of a typewriter with a sheet of virgin paper rolled in and not have a single thing to set down on the vast whiteness.

Column writing requires a knack. This knack departed in force to Saskatchewan and in the interim certain adventurous naive people have endeavored to try their hand at the business of wrapping out heart-warming little essays on this or that or nothing at all. For the most part they don't volunteer a second time. For the benefit of any such chroniclers who prefer to stay away from hectic clamor of contemporary history and interest themselves in the human interest department the following is offered.

Beginning with the proposition that you want to write a column, nay, are faced with the necessity of turning one out to meet a deadline which is about twenty minutes away, you must have an angle. Failing this you write three dreary paragraphs explaining that you haven't got an angle. For the sake of a bright note of optimism, we'll allow you a definite idea. It may be something you feel strongly about.

(Usually you find that you feel strongly about absolutely nothing except the foolishness of columning, but that doesn't get you anywhere.) The burning issue that swept the campus in the gay days of a year or so ago was the knee socks question. In those carefree days of suspended youth, you would have had a rollicking opportunity to air your opinions and even inject a few mots, which you might privately think were pretty sparkling stuff. In short, that was your angle.

Chatter columns, of course, are another proposition. To write these you must know some chatter, the odd joke, an anecdotal turn is essential. From the point of view of filling much space quickly, this is the easiest sort of thing to handle as it affords many opportunities for printing in bold face type and employing the asterisk rule to consume a line or two, as:

Most people feel that since life has become exceedingly real and earnest they should without further ado get a cause. This is very fine if you really have a cause that you can expound once a week at a length of 400 words and not run out within a fortnight.

But whatever your subject, there is a columnist's point of view that is as essential as the typewriter you use to freeze your fleeting words. This is as indefinable as the component parts of a successful column. A certain whipped cream consistency in treating your subject.

Around the Globe

Stalingrad: Nazis are reported losing 70 per cent. of attacking forces in this area. Russians reinforced from across the Volga improve position in Caucasus.

More Battleships for Britain: Two more battleships launched recently have brought the British Fleet up to its pre-war strength, it was announced by the Admiralty.

Officers Exchanged: Further co-operation among the armed forces of Canada, the United States, and Great Britain will be achieved by the interchange of officers.

Victory Loan: Sherbrooke leads whole Dominion in Victory Loan returns up to the present, with 23 per cent. of their objective reached. St. John, N.B., second with 19 per cent.

Washington: The biggest tax bill in American history was passed through Congress today. Roosevelt will sign it tomorrow.

McGill Begins New Series of Night Classes

Numerous Courses Are Now Given In Evenings

A series of evening extension courses are now being held at the University, and are provided for adults and other students unable to attend day time classes. The courses cover a wide variety of subjects and many are especially designed for War use. Lectures on War Russian, War German and War Japanese will begin in the near future. Further details about this will be announced later.

Most of the courses started last week. These include "Geography of North America" given by Miss J. D. Sleeright, "Public Speaking, Preparation and Delivery" given by Mr. A. Robert George, and "Metallography-Advanced," given by Associate Prof. Gordon Sproule. "Psychiatry in Nursing" Course 1 also started Course, which is an Introductory course for Graduate Nurses begins January 12, 1943.

Modern languages play an important part in these evening lectures. Miss I. St. Jean is taking a number of courses in French-Elementary, Intermediate and Advanced, as well as French Diction, "Certitude et Croyance," a French course in Modern Philosophy, is given by Miss M. J. Francis. "German, Elementary and Intermediate" is given by Miss Bertha Meyer. "Spanish, Elementary and Intermediate" by Miss R. E. Henry, and "Elementary Russian" by Mr. D. J. Picker, make up the modern language group.

Pre-Meds Will Meet Thursday

Students to Be Addressed by Doctor Martin

The Pre-Medical Society will hold its first meeting of the present session tomorrow at 5.00 p.m. in the McGill Union. Dr. Martin, Professor of Anatomy, will address the group.

Special welcome is extended to all Freshmen who hope to become students of the Faculties of Medicine and Dentistry, and the invitation is renewed to the old members of the society. The executive plans to make this year a successful one and hopes that new members will support this program.

The purpose of the society, which was founded a few years ago, is to acquaint the prospective medical and dental students with the professors in these faculties, and also with various aspects of the courses they will study. In previous years fortnightly meetings were held at which some professor of Medicine or of Pre-Medicine addressed the group and answered any questions asked by the members of the society. The Pre-Medical Society provides a place, as remarked by one of the executives, "where pre-med and pre-dental students meet and exchange news and views."

Dental Undergraduates Hold Dance Tomorrow

The first of a series of informal dances to be held by the McGill Dental Undergraduates Society, will be held on Thursday, October 24th, in the Grill Room of the McGill Union.

The decision to launch a comprehensive program for the season was made at a recent meeting of the Society, and this is the first affair. Things will get under way at 9.00 p.m. on Thursday evening, and the dance will continue until 1.00 a.m. There will be a nickelodeon to supply various rhythms for the dancers, and refreshments may be obtained from the Union Cafeteria.

Library's Role Is Described

Dr. Lomer Tells Urgent Need of Books in War Effort

The important part which libraries are playing in the war effort was discussed at a recent meeting of the Quebec Library Association.

Dr. G. R. Lomer, Librarian of McGill University, described the recent conference of the newly organized Canadian Library Council, and added an appeal for books to replace collections in bombed libraries in Britain. Dr. F. Cyril James, chairman of the committee on reconstruction, urged the libraries to begin at once to set aside duplicates from their collections, and to ask the public to help. The books will be shipped to England when peace is restored, he said. All kinds of books are needed, but especially standard sets, classics and scholarly books, and runs of periodicals and serial publications.

Speaking of the conference of the Canadian Library Council, held in conjunction with the convention of the American Library Association in Milwaukee, Wis., Dr. Lomer said that the Council is having reports prepared on library training in Canada, and also on the desirability of active library extension work throughout the Dominion, and the photographic reproduction of early Canadian newspapers.

Miss H. E. Hibbard, of the Blacker Library at McGill, and Miss Janet Saunders, of the International Labour Office library, reported on the meetings of the Special Libraries Association.

Arts and Crafts To Hold Exhibit

Crafts Bulletin Lists Displays Open to Entrants

The annual McGill Arts and Crafts Exhibition will be held this year from November 20 to December 12. This exhibit is open to all who are connected with the University.

Although there is a wide variety of exhibits in which the entries may be placed, none will be accepted which have appeared in previous exhibitions at McGill. The Arts and Crafts Committee has the right to reject any material entered if they deem it against the better interests of the exhibition. In order that all may be acquainted with the displays open to them the Committee has published the Crafts Bulletin. Among the exhibits listed are the various kinds of drawings and paintings acceptable. Photography, sculpture, and modelling are also discussed in the Bulletin.

A member of the executive stated that through this exhibition will be reflected the creative spirit and energy of the University and urged all students and staff to send in entries.

Victory Loan Campaign Started Encouraging Progress Reported

By A. K.

Getting off to an energetic start, Mr. Eric Reddy has been busily engaged in contacting subscribers at the University. He has over 200 cards of names of faculty members to be canvassed for subscriptions in the Victory Loan and, last night, at the close of the second day of the campaign, he was glad to report that he had been given a warm welcome everywhere.

Mr. Reddy pointed out that, for the purposes of the Victory Loan campaign, McGill University is in Unit Number 182. This unit comprises the whole of the district from Hutchison Street to Cote des Neiges, and from Sherbrooke Street to Pine Avenue. The quota for this Unit is $1,135,000, but this applies to the whole district comprising Unit Number 182, and not only to McGill University.

While discussing the campaign, Mr. Reddy mentioned the difficulty of address, which applies particularly to McGill. The reason for this is that many of the faculty members while teaching here, have offices and residences outside the confines of Unit Number 182 and they may receive requests to purchase bonds from other sources. Therefore he is making a special effort to see as many of the people whose cards he has as soon as possible so that he can put their subscription toward the McGill quota. He expressed the hope that the faculty and students at McGill would co-operate by subscribing through him.

Sitting in his office in the Administration Building, surrounded by all the campaign literature, Mr. Reddy stated that while it was too early to make any predictions, he nevertheless felt confident of the outcome, in view of the enthusiastic reception he received yesterday in the Arts and Engineering Buildings. Although he was unable to contact everyone, he was glad to report that he had many applications out. (In evidence of his day's work, there was a stack of completed subscription forms on his desk.)

In subsequent discussion on the campaign, Mr. Reddy said that he would welcome subscriptions or suggestions from any of the societies or fraternities at the University. He stressed how easy it is to (Continued on Page Four)

Culliton Denies Rumours Of Harvesters' Hardship

Telegraphs to 'Daily' Concerning Conditions

Professor John Culliton yesterday sent the McGill "Daily" a telegram explaining the situation regarding the student harvesters. His telegram read: Everything fine, suggest you see Regina Leader Post Oct. 17 page 5 and reprint in full this is a land of wheat and rumours. This was his answer to a query from the "Daily" about the rumours of hardship amongst the students.

(The article mentioned by Professor Culliton was reprinted in full in yesterday's issue. It appeared on page 2, under the heading "Correspondence from the West.")

Letters Received

The "Daily" has received letters from students telling of the conditions under which they are working. Some of these letters describe conditions much the same as those mentioned in the Leader-Post's article. Others, however, tell of extreme heat, long hours and, in a few cases, of illness.

Parents and relatives of students have received similar letters, according to reports, which have resulted in many conflicting stories and rumours. According to Professor Culliton, these rumours are largely unfounded. However, clarification of some of the reported conditions is awaited.

Yesterday's "Daily" also printed a letter from a student which provided the basis of an article appearing in yesterday's "Star". This letter described the work as "no fun", but expressed the student's desire to do his part in a national emergency.

The letters received by the "Daily" have coincided closely with this attitude. Some have described the work as enjoyable and conditions as excellent; but the average tone is that of doing a man's job with few comforts. It was to refute the unpleasant rumours and to substantiate the views of the "Daily's" correspondents that Professor Culliton was contacted.

McClennan Residence Presented to McGill

Miss Isabella McClennan has recently presented her house to this University. The donation was made on behalf of Miss McClennan's family, who have always shown great interest in McGill. She herself has maintained close connections with the University for many years, and has displayed particular interest in student activities.

The house, which is situated on Ontario Avenue, is to be used for any purpose for which the University sees fit, no specific use having been stipulated.

Extract from War Services Regulations Is Published; All Men Students Concerned

Post-Graduate Studies In War Work Permitted

A clarification of the position of students under the National War Service Regulations was released yesterday by the University. It was pointed out that the phrase "Arts, Science and Commerce" has been defined by the Ministry of National War Services as including Medicine, Law, Music and Agriculture. The regulation therefore will apply to all male university students. The Extract from Consolidated War Service Regulations (1942) is printed below.

Loan to Be Subscribed At Administration Bldg.

The University's Victory Loan quota has been increased, Mr. Reddy, who is in charge of McGill's Victory Loan drive announced on Monday; it is therefore most important, Mr. Reddy said, that all professors and students subscribe to the loan as much as they possibly can, and also, that they subscribe through Mr. Reddy's office, which is located in the Administration Building.

The Victory Loan official went on to say, that it is also a matter of great importance to the reputation of the University, that the loan quota is not only met, and increased if possible, but that this is done within the stated time which is November 7, or only a few days later.

Cosmos Gathers For Luncheon

Weekly Series Is Reincarnated In Union Grill

The Cosmopolitan Club is today reinstituting its weekly series of luncheon meetings, similar to those which it held last year. These meetings will be held today, and each succeeding Wednesday throughout the session, at 1.00 p.m. in the Union Grill Room.

The group will meet at specially reserved tables in the Grill Room, and, after they have finished eating, at approximately 1.40, they will adjourn to the Committee Room, where the remainder of the programme will be carried on.

During this part of the meeting a member of the club will give a brief talk, of about ten minutes duration, to be followed by a short discussion and question period. The meeting will definitely be concluded before 2.00 p.m., so that those who attend will be in time for the start of afternoon lectures or laboratories. The meeting will be open to club members and any others who may be interested.

17.1) In this section a. "Student" means a person pursuing a full time course of studies at a Canadian University or college leading to a degree in Arts, Science or Commerce, or a person at a preparatory school pursuing in good faith, in the opinion of the Board, an academic course the satisfactory completion of which is required as a prerequisite to entrance upon a course of studies leading to a degree in Arts, Science or Commerce, or a person at a Canadian university, college or school pursuing a course of studies the satisfactory completion of which, in the opinion of the Board, would be in the national interest or in aid of the successful prosecution of the war.

b. "District Officer Commanding" means the Officer Commanding the military district in which any university, college or school referred to in paragraph (a) of this section is situated.

2) At the beginning of each academic year, every student shall be subject to be medically examined in accordance with "Physical standards and instructions for the medical examination of recruits" and, if found physically fit, shall enrol in the Canadian Officers' Training Corps contingent, if acceptable thereto and a vacancy exists therein, or auxiliary training unit of his university, college or school, if available, or in the absence of such contingent or unit, in such other unit as the District Officer Commanding may direct, and shall therein undergo military training to the satisfaction of the District Officer Commanding.

3) Any physically fit student who a. refuses to enrol in the Canadian Officers' Training Corps contingent or auxiliary training unit of his university, college or school, or in such other unit as the District Officer Commanding may direct as required in subsection two of this section, or

b. fails to perform therein military training to the satisfaction of the District Officer Commanding, or

c. fails to pass any term or yearly academic examination required by his university, college or school, unless such failure, in the opinion of the university, college or school authorities and the District Officer Commanding, is due to circumstances beyond the control of such student, and that he should be permitted to continue his course of

Victory Loan

With the Victory Loan drive in its third day of contributions it seems pertinent to say a word about it. Students generally speaking are not in a position to purchase war bonds but are fully aware of the importance of voluminous contributions to this loan drive.

University students nowadays are in a very difficult position and at the same time are on the horns of a dilemma. Their material contribution to the war effort are of necessity small in the eyes of the on-looker. There is a salvage campaign and the most they can do is collect forty tons of salvage; they organize a mile of pennies and the most they can do is buy two Bren guns; there is a victory loan campaign and the most they can do is express their hope that people will see the essential nature of the loan and buy all the bonds they can, and then two more for good measure.

But the interesting feature—and the one not realized by everyone—is that in two of the cases mentioned above, students were the leaders and salvage drives, as well as miles of pennies, dimes or what have you, followed in large numbers.

And now we can do little but reiterate the oft expressed wish that everyone at the university do all he or she can to make this victory loan a great success. It is not necessary to explain to university students the importance of the loan: "Nothing matters but Victory."

Ars Gratia....

The annual Arts and Crafts Exhibition held by the University tells of another side of McGill life that is not revealed either in the University courses or by the many clubs and societies of the college. It is a side of life which, if known and practised by students must be done completely on their own. And the fact that the annual Exhibit gives those students a means of displaying the fruit of their labours is greatly in its favour. Those who take the trouble to arrange the entries each year and to organize the general exhibition are to be complimented. And those who enter any of their work will find their own reward in the appreciation of the other students.

At a University where no handicraft work whatever is taught, students, who are interested in painting or any of the other arts which require manual dexterity along with artistic appreciation, must carry on any work in these lines as extra-extra-curricular activities. Students who are able to find the time amid lectures, war training and study to express themselves in this way deserve a great deal of praise, and it is most appropriate that the University should appreciate this.

It is hoped that all who have any work that the Exhibit can use, will hand it in.

While there are no substantial rewards, commonly going under the name of prizes, entrants may find the criticisms of other students helpful and the praise of the other students encouraging.

Both those who enter exhibits and those who, not having the type of talent such work requires, are mere onlookers should take an interest in the Arts and Crafts Exhibition as an important part in their artistic development and general education.

Music Notes

McGill String Quartet

Arthur Benjamin, the celebrated Australian pianist, will be guest artist for the opening concert of the McGill String Quartet series, November 27th. This is the third annual series under the auspices of Montreal Festivals.

The series this year will be on Friday evenings and will continue to be presented in the Windsor Hotel, the Prince of Wales Salon.

Dates of the other concerts and guest artists are December 18 with Robert McBride, whose performance of the Mozart clarinet quintet last season was so outstanding. This past year he has been oboe soloist with the Boston Symphony and it is with oboe he returns to play another Mozart quintet. The guest artist for January 15 will be Germaine Malepart the Canadian pianist, and the concert following the Beethoven Septet will be the feature of the program with Messrs. Gagnier and Hardy joining the strings with clarinet, bassoon, French horn and double bass.

The personnel of the Quartet has changed. Mr. Kondacks has joined the Black Watch. Mildred Goodman and Lotte Goetzel, cellists, both former students at the McGill Conservatory and both winners of scholarships for study abroad, have joined the group.

One of the features of this year's series will be an exchange concert with the Toronto Conservatory String Quartet. This will be on February 28. The members of the Toronto Quartet are Elie Spivak, Harold Sumburg, Cecil Figelski and Zara Nelsowa. The McGill String Quartet will play one concert in Toronto in the chamber music series there. The final concert of the series is March 19. The guest artist for this has not yet been decided.

Montreal Festivals

From Montreal Festivals office comes the announcement that Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra who directed the entire Festivals' season in St. Laurent College in 1939, will come to Montreal to conduct the November 6th concert, first in a series of concerts under the auspices of the Aid to Russia campaign.

It will be of special interest to Montreal music lovers to hear that Ormandy will again conduct Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, for it was the presentation of this mighty work that marked his greatest triumph in Montreal three years ago. As at that time, the Choir of Les Disciples of Massenet with Charles Goulet directing will sing the Finale of this beloved symphony. Soloists are being chosen by Mr. Ormandy from members of the New York Metropolitan Company.

Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will fill one-half the program. The first half will be given over to Russian music, and will include Prokofiev's Classical Symphony among other works. When Mr. Ormandy steps onto the podium to conduct the concert at the Forum, he will find facing him not only the entire personnel of the Montreal Festivals orchestra, but several members of his own Philadelphia Orchestra. One of the most outstanding of these guest musicians will be Saul Caston, the Associate Conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, who is also its first trumpeter. Mr. Caston will take his place in the brass section at the Forum Concert on November 6th.

Around The Stores And On The Campus by Filia Campi

We went trotting around the stores this week to see what we could pick up on the latest war fashions. We were particularly interested in the subject of dresses, for after all a college girl may not care how sloppy or how casual she looks around college during lecture time, but she is always particular about how she looks on these extra special date nights.

We asked one buyer a number of questions on materials and colours, and how the war has affected styles. She was very optimistic in some ways. Wools, she said, are still to be had in quantity and they add a glamorous softening to hard lines. They come in all the old delicate shades, along with bright reds, greens and blues. Interesting are the two new shades which have been very popular thus far this fall. They are a yellow shade of green and a deep purple. Greens are being coupled with browns a great deal... they look very autumny. We found a number of beautiful rich purples around, and we noticed a few mauvy purple suits and dark purple blouses around the campus to confirm the buyer's statement. Crepes are a little more difficult to obtain nowadays; however those that are to be had are made up into very interesting styles. And this brings us to war fashions.

While the war has meant a cutting down in the amount of material used in skirts and the like, it has revealed a great deal of ingenuity and originality on the part of designers. Little tucks, beadings, smocking, tiny frills and "over-the-table" decorations have been used on the new war time dresses with taste and a flair for the novel that is most pleasing. As we mentioned last week, corduroy is also being made into date dresses now along with suits and reversibles.

While the trend in sweaters still can't make up its mind, and seems to run in two parallel lines of sloppy Jo's and neat fitted styles, the trend in college coats seems to be set for this fall and early winter at any rate. Everywhere one looks unbelled box coats are to be seen. Worn over the sweater and skirt combination, slung over tweed suits, they dot the fall campus with herringbones and other tweeds.

Incidentally the number of originally adorable ornaments which are now on display on coats and sweaters is remarkably great. We see little wooden elephants, unicorns, metal bulls and what not. They're really a treat.

Record Ramblings

I've wondered for some time now why Victor bungled its most terrific opportunity in some years—the recording of the Shostakovich 7th Symphony. The word given me is that Toscanini and the NBC did not record it for two reasons: first, that he takes literally months to approve the recordings that he does, and second, that due to the squabble (worse than any band-leader fighting about a film score) behind scenes, Toscanini had been given the first radio performance, Koussevitsky the first concert date, and Leopold Stokowski the initial recording date.

I know also that Charles O'Connell, Victor's classical recording director, gets along very well with Stokowski, and not so well with Toscanini. I've heard rumors, which I hope are not true, that Mr. O'Connell frankly wanted to see Stokowski do the recording, and not Toscanini, and lobbied thusly.

Frankly, I would rather see Stokowski do it myself—others to the contrary and with all his faults, on this work, I think he would do a better job than Toscanini. But on the other hand, Victor certainly missed the boat on the world's biggest job of music publicity.

With the build-up that Toscanini's concerts received, if Victor had taken a performance recording, which is what it has done at times in the past, and stopped all other Red Seal production and rushed this through as quickly as possible, they not only would have made themselves some fast dollars, but also done the cause of Russo-American relations a great deal of good.

I am informed that if Toscanini asked for it, he would be given special permission to record the Symphony, whereas Stokowski's chances are not so good for a special licence. It would seem that every effort should be made to get the work on wax as soon as possible.

While on this topic, it might be pointed out that the Russians take their music very seriously, pushing performing units and amplifiers right up to the front lines to entertain the troops—and that each company has a soldier or two specially trained to lead the men into battle singing—and singing march tunes that mean something.

Letter Forum

From the West.

Moose Jaw, Oct. 15
Thursday 6.00 a.m.

Hello Everyone:

After multiple adventures to our group of five (including "Tiny Donovan") we have finally settled down. Several hectic days have followed our arrival in Saskatchewan. Those will be told we hope in a story to be published in the Daily on our return to town. We are now co-operating on said story.

Let it be known that our party after travelling by train, tramways, bus, electric and gasoline trains, taxi and by cart finally tell to work to be fired 3 hours later.

No money, no place to sleep, a temperature below freezing point we were indeed in a nice spot, and yet everybody managed to laugh it off.

We succeeded in getting through all our misfortunes, and are now well established on a 4,000 acre farm.

My duty is to drive a truck, (a thing I never did before, but the farmer little doubts it), and also to shovel the grain, pitch the hay, etc. etc. My back is half broken, my ears are aching, but its all part of our "great adventure."

We are twelve miles from Moose Jaw, way in the "sticks." No newspapers, nothing at all. Mail comes twice a week and we sure would appreciate a copy of the Daily. Would you mind mailing a couple?

(Ed. Note. Arrangements have been made to send Dailies to the harvesters but difficulties have prevented some people from receiving them.)

The Controversy Again.

The Editor, McGill Daily,
Dear Sir,

In the letter forum of Monday's "Daily," there appeared a letter, signed Commerce 4 Coed, that displayed a rather narrow and ill-informed set of opinions.

It is a fact that considerable numbers of engineers were willing to go to Saskatchewan, and would have gone had not the University considered that trained engineers were so vitally needed that they could not afford to leave their studies. Therefore, other, and less vitally needed groups were called upon, and Commerce responded magnificently.

I would like to suggest that in future, before presenting letters misquoting University opinions, the commercial coeds should acquaint themselves with the facts, or, better still, restrict their ramblings to red shorts or other subjects about which they may be adequately informed.

J. T. N. Atkinson, Eng. '44.

THE COLLEGIAN

The trouble with the collegian is that he grows up to be an alum. And something makes alumni coy. You think this viewpoint glum?

Well, consider the letters your father gets. Informal, cunning, pally, And writ by the secretary of his class, Who wants him to come to a rally.

"Dear 'Stinky,'" they are apt to start. "This is 'Old Man' Tate, Writing to tell you about the brawl, And to ask you to save the date."

We boys and girls will let 'er rip. Yes, sir! We'll raise the dead." (The trouble is that most of the grads Are raising grandchildren, instead).

Next 'Old Man' starts to reminisce, With humor sly and slinky. "Remember the time that you and I Stole that street car, 'Stinky?'"

And thus, he roguishly proceeds. And here, I make my plaint. If, as alums, you write me notes, Please, kids, don't make them quaint!

TIDBITS OF C.O.T.C.

A certain Freshman on his way up to a C.O.T.C. parade at the school was stopped downtown by an M.P. and asked to show his pass. "I ain't got no pass," quoth the Frosh.

"Well, what unit do you belong to," he was asked.

Brightly the Western replied, "Mu-"

Brightly the Westerner replied, "Number Three Platoon."

"Very clear—number three platoon of what?"

"The C.O.T.C."

"Well, what in hell is the C.O.T.C.?"

Unhesitatingly our patriotic cadet answered, "Corn on the cob!"

Annual Track Meet to Begin This Afternoon

The March of Sport

The Kerr Klan will be revived for a short spell, under the best arrangements yet sanctioned for Extramural competition since the suspension of the Intercollegiate team. Considering the unprecedented shortage of likely opponents in the city, we could ask for little more than to play against teams of the best Intra-city league now in operation, namely, the Q.R.F.U.

Probably the actual entry into a league, with a championship to fight for, would be a greater stimulus to interest, but judging from last year's go against Verdun Grads, football seems capable of arousing considerable enthusiasm through an exhibition game, and the outlook is pretty rosy. The entry into a league depends to a great extent on the desires of the players, as well as the availability of a league, and in the case of football, where the McGill training season starts later than that of other teams, such a move may not be feasible.

The hockey team, on the other hand, has not been so successful with its exhibitions. The turnout of fans to what was to be a banner game against Clarkson College last year was very discouraging, and the game at Loyola had the disadvantage of a too distant rink. However, the Red teams showed that they would have been capable of holding their own in the Services League by beating the Navy and Loyola teams in exhibition tilts. There is every reason to believe that the same high standard of players will turn out for hockey this year as every other year; the competitive spirit will surely be as high as ever, and with the N.D.H.L. just organized, the entry into the league may be a great factor in returning the game to its former place of prominence in the minds of McGill sports enthusiasts.

Last year, McGill was able to organize a basketball team, which the players were very anxious to enter into a city league; and it was found possible for them to compete in the Montreal Basketball League. Although the Intramural league will absorb most of the basketball energy, there is a distinct possibility that a representative team will be again formed, to compete in a similar manner in a municipal league.

To return again to football, the High School teams are still providing some of the most exciting football seen at Molson Stadium since the great Toronto Argos filled the air up there with forward and lateral passes. The teams have all been showing steady improvement as the season progresses, and have become quite adept at shuffling their plays. When Westhill's four backfielders break to the left or right, the play can either develop into a straight run behind four-man interference, or the ball-carrier may be planning to pass to the other backs and turn the play into an extension end run. Catholic High starts nearly all its plays from the same box formation, and they can shift into three different pass formations, in all of which the passer takes the ball near the line of scrimmage from a ball carrier, who has

Schedule Five Event for Today, Six for Friday

The much talked-about and once postponed 70th Annual Sports Day will get under way this afternoon at 5.00 p.m. at which time competitors will vie their ability with each other in the broad jump and shot put. At 5.15 heats for the 100-yard dash will be run off, to be followed in close succession by the mile, 100 yard final, and 440 yard run.

Due to the inconvenient absence of some 400-odd of our male students in the far west, there has been a serious shrinkage in entrants for most events. For this reason, and to encourage all those who may at the last minute have an urge to show their athletic prowess, post entries will be accepted for all events. At the same time it has been pointed out that whereas generally there are a large number of faculty representatives present on Sports Day to act as officials, this does not appear to be the case this year. As a result some of the instructional officials have kindly volunteered their services in this respect. However, if any one else who has had experience in this sort of thing were to turn up, their help will be greatly appreciated.

Of last year's outstanding athletes, Glenn Cowen, who won both the mile and the 440, will be missing from the scene today due to his being in the Navy. Morris Bourne, who copped the 100 yd. dash in 10.8 secs. will also be absent.

However, those who attended Sports Day last year will remember Harris Walker who took the aggregate championship. His efforts there were not only confined to the actual competitions, but were used in racing from one event to the other, so many did he enter. Walker, who came first in the pole-vault (which has now been cancelled), and who threw the 12-lb. shot 42 ft. 11 in. to top that event, will again be leading the sports parade at the Stadium.

KAREFA-SMART, BERMAN TO RUN

John Karefa-Smart, a fast sprinter who led the men in the 220 yd. dash, doing it in 24.3 sec., is also turning up in that event. He is also the man to look out for in the 440 and broad jump. That old standby Joe Berman, a real distance runner, will be returning in the mile and 440. In the field events Walter Percival last year won the high and broad jumps, and is back again to set the pace for the other entrants. These veterans are expected to have severe competition from a field of newcomers. Mentioned chiefly

Rugby Squads Are Selected

Red and Blue Teams to Play Tuesday

McGill will have two rugby interests this season as plans are in the making for forming an all-star team to play two games against powerful squads of the Q.R.F.U., while at the same time an Intramural league has been planned with games scheduled to start next Tuesday.

Insofar as the former is concerned arrangements have not yet been completed. As things now stand two games will be played, the first on October 31, the other on November 1. The teams with which the matches are to be played are going to be two of the following teams: Army, Air Force and Verdun teams. The setup depends on which two of these squads play in the first game of the double-header to take place on the first day. Great interest has been aroused in these games due to the fact that they are the first official contests which McGill aggregates will play with outside teams this year.

The all-star team will consist of picked members of the Intramural teams, whose members have already been chosen from the men who have been turning out for practices in the afternoon. Although their number was greatly diminished by the migration to the west of many of the students, these men have nevertheless been formed into two good football squads. Each of these has about twenty men. Coach for one of the teams is J. Cloghesy, of the Reds, while Johnny Bennett will pilot the Blues. These men have pounded their teams into great shape and expect that all games played will be very closely contested.

The teams are made up as follows:

RED
J. Cloghesy coach, Poulson, Farlinger, F. Johnston, Powles, Patrick, MacEachern, Culler, Mann, Blehaly, Millholland, Stewart, Milne, Ince, Dixon, Smith, Milson, Hale, Darrogh, Pearson.

BLUE
Johnny Bennett coach, Williams, Carlucci, Heath, Woodcock, Feutler, Scoble, Farlinger, Farquhar, Greedige, Rubec, Gouthier, Patterson, Little, Armstrong, Gould, Landry, J. Darrogh, Ami, Stachiewicz.

NOTE:
Anybody left out, report to practice on Tuesday at 4.30.

C Coy. Beat E Coy. 3-1 In Soccer Tilt Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon C Company met E Company at soccer on the upper campus. The match resulted in a victory for C Company, by a score of 3 to 1.

During the first half, C Company maintained a strong attack, favoured by the penalties inflicted on E Company — as some of the latter were novices, and infringed the rules. Outstanding during this period was Chin Loy, the centre forward for the victors. The half closed with a score of 1-0 for C Company.

The play degenerated during the first part of the second half, and the strong C Company forward line was able to break through and score two more goals. At this stage E Company rallied, and broke through to score their only goal. Then C Company attacked again, but were held until the final whistle.

Red Team To Be Entered In Defence Hockey Loop

Doubleheaders To Be Played Fridays

After much rumour during the last couple of years, McGill has finally entered a hockey team in a city league, namely, the National Defence Hockey League, it was announced late last night.

Teams representing Army, Navy, Air Force and McGill will comprise the league, it was announced by Sgt. Major L. W. Newman, newly-elected secretary-treasurer of the loop. At a meeting held yesterday it was decided that all games would be played at the Forum on Friday nights, with the schedule, to be issued next week, starting in mid-November.

Doubleheaders will be played each week. It was also decided that a limit of three Q.S.H.L. players be allowed for each team. This applies where a player is performing in both leagues. There will, of course, be no limit where a former Q.S.H.L. player decides to perform solely in the National Defence League.

Sgt. Major Newman stressed the fact that the circuit would cooperate with national war services at all times.

Pat Earl, president, has been invaluable in preparations to date, acting as sort of liaison officer between the services and the public, and his election was unanimous.

The meeting elected the following officers to look after the interests of the league: President, Pat Earl; secretary-treasurer, Sgt. Major L. W. Newman; executive, Hay Finlay, Sqdn.-Ldr. L. Doyle, Capt. N. Southward and Sub.-Lieut. J. M. Belanger. In addition to those mentioned Pie. Desse Smith, Army; FO, Bert Light, R.C.A.F., also attended the meeting.

Cagers to Hold First Practice

City League Entry May Be Organized

The Basketball season will get underway Saturday afternoon, when a general practice will be held at 3.30 p.m., for anyone interested in trying out for their company team, or a representative team that will probably be formed to compete in a municipal league. There will also be a regular practice schedule later on.

The major facilities will be devoted to the Intramural league, and so long as it does not interfere with this loop, a representative team is planned.

As yet, no definite league has been formed and the M.B.L. is to meet next week to discuss plans for the coming season. It may be organized the same as last year or there may be a services loop formed. So far the Pals and Oilers are forming teams along with one or two Air Force teams.

If any opponents can be found for interesting exhibition games, such games will be arranged.

Coed Sports

FENCING

The R.V.C. Fencing Club will meet in the Lower Gym in R.V.C. on Tuesdays and Fridays at 5.00 p.m. starting October 20th. All Freshies and other newcomers are welcome. Equipment is provided and George Tully will again be in charge of the class.

ARCHERY

The Archery Club will hold its first meeting this week. All those interested are welcome, beginners as well as more experienced archers. The Intercollegiate Meet has been arranged and will be held in the near future. In this telegraphic meet, many colleges are competing so turn out and get some practice.

BADMINTON

There will be mixed badminton every Saturday night at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium, and every Tuesday from 7-10 at R.V.C. Inter-section games will begin shortly, and all those interested should get in touch with Margaret McGarry.

It's a hard life. No sooner does a person learn to pronounce the names in one country than the war moves on to another.

Coeds to Play Net Semi-finals

Claire Renshaw Advances Easily In Title Defence

The Women's Tennis Tournament completed its Quarter-finals yesterday, and the Semi-final will probably be played this afternoon. Today's winners were Connie Cordell, Mary Davidson, Thelma Stevens, and Claire Renshaw. They have all been playing well in previous games, and fans are likely to see an interesting exhibition of tennis in the last two rounds.

The Martin Cup for Tennis was won last year by Claire Renshaw, and in order to win this year she will have to overcome serious opposition. Mary Davidson, who has shown up as an outstanding contender, is still in there for the next round. When these two meet in the semi-final they will probably give a very interesting performance.

All the MacTavish St. Courts are at the disposal of the co-eds, and the tournament should be finished off promptly.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Connie Cordell defeated Elaine Ross, 4-6, 6-1, 6-0.
Mary Davidson defeated Eliz. Drayton, 6-0, 6-3.
Thelma Stevens defeated Diana Stainer, 7, 6-4.
Claire Renshaw defeated Phyllis Wood, 6-0, 6-0.

4) The University, college or school authorities referred to in subsection one of this section shall furnish the District Officer Commanding and the appropriate Divisional Registrar with the name, date and place of birth and last known address of every student who fails to pass any required academic examination.

5) A student shall not change a course of studies entered upon at a university, college or school unless the university, college or school authorities and the District Officer Commanding consent to such change, and such consent shall not be given unless, in the opinion of such university, college or school authorities and such District Officer Commanding, the change in course is in the national interest or in aid of the successful prosecution of the war.

6) A student may be permitted to pursue post graduate studies in any subject if, in the opinion of the university or college authorities and the District Officer Commanding, the pursuit of such a course of studies is in the national interest or in aid of the successful prosecution of the war.

7) Subject to the provisions of subsection six of this section, upon the normal completion of his course of studies at a university, college or school, every student shall be subject to being called out under these regulations.

8) Subject to the provisions of the next succeeding subsection, a person subject to being called out under these regulations shall not be authorized by the Chairman of the Board to whose jurisdiction such person is subject to leave Canada to pursue a course of studies outside Canada if the course of studies intended to be pursued is available at a Canadian university, college or school: Provided that persons who have been pursuing a course of studies at a university, college or school outside Canada shall be allowed to pursue such course of studies to its normal completion, subject to the provisions of paragraph (c) of subsection three and subsection seven of this section.

9) If the Board is satisfied that owing to the financial circumstances of a person or for other reasons it is in the national interest or in aid of the successful prosecution of the war to allow such person to pursue a course of studies leading to a degree in Arts, Science or Commerce at a university, college or school outside Canada, the Chairman of the Board may grant permission to such person to leave Canada for that purpose.

10) Except as otherwise provided in this section the Board may grant a postponement order to a student who has complied with the provisions of this section or to a person who has been allowed to pursue a course of studies to its normal completion outside Canada, or to a person who has been granted permission to leave Canada under the provisions of subsections eight or nine of this section.

11) No person who is recognized by a Board as a Mennonite, Doukhobor or conscientious objector shall be deemed to be a student for the purposes of this section.

12) In the case of a conflict of opinion between the university, college or school authorities and the District Officer Commanding arising out of the application of this section, such conflict shall be referred by the District Officer Commanding to the appropriate Board for its decision.

Not a light approach necessarily, but an objective one that will permit a look-in from both sides of an issue. Perhaps sense of humor is the quality in a very special sense. Certainly a sense of humor is the first essential when faced with the necessity of fabricating something from nothing with the inexorable march of the clock working against the deadline that approaches with the grinning horror of a nightmare.

subscribe, since bonds are available for as little as $50, and even these can be purchased on an easy installment plan.

Latest news available last night on the progress of the Victory Loan Campaign as a whole was very promising. In the first day alone a total of $52,614,000 was subscribed, which is over $1,000,000 in excess of the amount subscribed in the first day of the Second Victory Loan campaign early last spring.

Two of the notable contributions to date are a $15,000,000 bond order from the London Life Insurance Company of London, Ontario, and a $104,000 purchase from the R.C.A.F. benevolent fund at Ottawa. Before noon of the first day, some districts had already reached their objective, and were still going strong.

run up as if to make a plunge through the line. Then there is the play by D'Arcy McGee where the backfielders break to the left or right, drawing the snap away from his secondary defence position behind the centre of the line, and the quarterback pivots and takes the ball himself through the hole thus created. The running interference itself, and the extra deception possible with its inclusion in the quarterback's bag of tricks, tend to increase the average length of ground gains, and remove the monotony of the "two bucks and a kick game."

Lost

A Polyphase Duplex Vector Slide-rule, with a yellow Cursor, all contained in a leather case. This slide-rule has antiquity. If found please leave in Fred Barton's office, or contact M. Kadish, phone DO. 4035.

Found

Found on Friday last in front of the Redpath Library a pen and pencil in a leather case apparently belonging to some airman. He may obtain same by applying to the Union Tuck Shop.

Lost

Bottom part of fountain pen (the part with nib), wine with green stripes. Finder kindly turn it in at the office of the School for Teachers, 772 Sherbrooke St. W.

Lost

One brilliant yellow pullover sweater has been lost somewhere on the campus. This sweater is hand knit in cable stitch, is trimmed with black, and has great sentimental value. Finder please leave with Mr. Marshall of the Med. building for Gordon Hatcher, or thief please phone me and perhaps we can arrange a deal.

Notice

LOST—One "Para" pipe, dark brown bowl, in Physics or Engineering Bldg. Old favourite. Please return to R. E. Cole or leave with Fred Barton.

"A" Wing Cadets

Lt.-Col. J. M. Morris, M.C., V.D., Officer Commanding the C.O.T.C. announced recently that the "A" Wing time table would in future consist of parades on Monday and Wednesday evenings, and on such Saturday afternoons as are required.

Each evening parade will now be made up of three 45-minute periods, or a total of six periods per week as formerly, but will permit both Officers and Cadets to be free on Friday evening.

Notice

Any students who have not yet given their Montreal addresses and telephone numbers to the Registrar's Office should do so at once. If these are not received before the 21st of October they may be left out of the Students' Directory.

T. H. Matthews, Registrar.

Lost

One more or less dark blue Waterman's fountain pen with fine

red lines, lost on October 7th. Finder please return to Bill Gentleman.

Medical Exams

The following students who have not yet (Oct. 14th) been medically examined according to the requirements of the University are required to pay a fine of $5.00. This must be paid at the Bursar's Office and the receipt must be taken to the Department of Physical Education in the Gymnasium who will then arrange for medical examination. Failure to make the necessary arrangements this week will increase the fine to $10.00.

Coop Members Please Note!

There will be a general meeting of all full and auxiliary members of the McGill Co-operative Association at the Co-operative Residence, 3609 University street, on Wednesday evening at 6.30 o'clock.

An election of managers is to take place, as well as a presentation of the pro-tem board's report.

Wanted! (to buy)

Since no one seems to be interested in parting with a copy of Putzger's "Historischer Atlas," would someone be so kind as to sell some inferior historical atlas, such as those of Dow, or of Ramsay-Muir? Phone La 6307, and be prepared to dicker.

FRAGMENT

He was standing on the crags and the sea boiled on the rocks below him. Each new, wild wave thundered and roared in a mad orgy of self-destruction. The rhythmless rhythm of the seas impregnated the air-bore into the deepest recesses of his soul. His body tremored, vibrated, shook at the proud waves hurled themselves into oblivion at his feet.

The futile courage of the sea impressed him. The frustrated purpose of the waves as they broke in angry agony upon the rocks enchanted him. The mournful murmur of the wind, moist with spray, enthralled him. It was only then that the madness set in.

The light of reason had gone out of his eyes. And momentarily the turmoil in his soul subsided. For a while he forgot the crazy sea below him. For a while, as he stood straight and motionless on the crags with the glow of a new fever in his eyes, he dreamt of other things. Peaceful things like the soft, silent snow and its whiteness. Wonderful things like the silent symphonies of the forest. Soothing things, like the coolness of a woman's hand upon his brow. But the mad, crashing music of the sea and the waves and the rocks disturbed each new and pleasant vision. And as he struggled, vainly, desperately to tear new dreams from that symphonic madness, the wildness came into his eyes.

He stopped fighting then. He heard and felt only the deep thunder of the breakers on the rocks. He saw only the futile bravery of the waves as again and again they beat their crested heads upon the rocky shore. He was conscious only of the hypnotic music of the angry sea, and a wild desire filled his soul and clutched at the finer ridden darkness of his mind.

He stared down upon the oily, naked rocks below and laughed. It was a wild mad laugh and the rising crescendo of its shrill madness momentarily drowned out the dull thunder of the sea. And as he laughed, he ran forward with eager steps and flung himself upon the rocks below.

The waves did not stop fighting. They raced, with unabated fury, to their doom upon the rocks. Just as each white crest raised up and hurled itself against the unkind shore it bore him with it. Only now the occasional glimpses of his face revealed no madness. Although his eyes were closed, a strange, sad smile gave evidence of reason on his face.

WHY GLOOM?

Undoubtedly, in many instances, the young writer of gloom wraps himself up in a mood of sad resignation and woeful thoughts. Once attaining this intense passion, he prepares himself to virtually "slay the world" with fatalistic pessimism a la Hardy. Envision him, his fore-

Outside Athletics

"During the Session and including the Christmas holidays all teams and individual STUDENTS DESIRING TO PARTICIPATE IN "OUTSIDE" ATHLETICS must first apply in writing through the Captain or Manager of the club concerned, who must secure the permission of the Athletics Manager by whom all such sanctions are granted. This application must include certification that the player has been medically examined and passed as fit.

Any student who takes part in any athletic contest which has not been sanctioned, or who fails to comply with the regulations concerning eligibility, etc., is immediately debarred from participation in any University athletics. The Students' Athletic Council, may if it seems fit, report the matter for appropriate disciplinary action."

"Outside" athletics are athletics not under the general supervision of the Students' Athletics Council of the University or of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union.

head damp with perspiration and his eyes wet with tears, one leg curled carefully around the chair's sturdy stock, the other stretched out before him in a truly artistic attitude, his hair in lank wisps and his eyes glued to the white sheet upon which he writes.

To our immense pain, we think that we behold ruddy drops of the young writer's own blood mingled with a few inky blots descending. Alas that such a noble creature should be overcome! After a few moments of steady writing, our young author removes his erudite bulk from his seat and walks towards his bookshelf. A huge black dictionary falls into his open hands. He peruses the pages with wild round eyes fixed on the neat print.

"Ha," he cries at last, "here it is." Yes, you have guessed it. He has searched for and found the largest most scathing word in the dictionary. Like a flash of lightning he returns to the desk; and before he forgets the spelling, places his prodigious word in the centre of his most remarkable climax.

His story is done, his brain is fagged. He switches out the dull yellow light and sprawls limply on his bed. Genius has burned itself out in the fire of its intensity.

The next morning, we, his invisible audience, read sympathetically his latest literary moan (his great contribution to the field of literary art) and tearfully remark, "One of them thar fatalists agin!"

We reach for our carefully permed locks that cost five dollars a hair, and wrench them recklessly out by the roots, forgetting in our dolor all Prof. Phelps's English classes while we sob bitterly, "Ain't there one bloomin' optomist in this institution. The more bloomy the better!"—Manitoba

MORONIC INTERLUDE

CANTO I
Oh I like 't see a villain
Aslinkin' long the deck
Asharpenin' up his long lean knife
To slice through summer's neck.
I know the hero's right
'Cause

The Lord gave us two ends to use;
One to think with, one to sit with.
The war depends on which we choose;
Heads we win, tails we lose!

—Queen's Journal.

CANTO II
de Mille has told me so
And I know that the villain
Deep down 't hell'll go.
But he's a funny sorta fellow

CANTO III
With a shiv'ry sorta name
Like Killer Joe or Slinky Pete
Nothin' soft or tame
I guess I am a moron
(Tho' I wooden really know)
'Cause I like to see the villain win

CANTO IV
When I go to a show
Oh the hero stands up forward

CANTO V
Aclutchin' of his dame
Lookin' deep into the distance
Swears he won't disgrace 'er fame
But the villain is the fellow
'Aslinkin' up behind

CANTO VI
Tho' he's small an' mean an' yellow
I soria like his kind.
Oh I know I'm actin' nasty
Thus to revel deep in sin

CANTO VII
But I would dearly dearly
Love to see the villain win.
FINIS.
